

Table with multiple columns containing names, addresses, and numerical data. The table is organized into several vertical sections, with entries for various individuals and organizations. Each entry typically includes a name, an address or location, and a set of numbers representing dates and amounts.